

HPC Tutorials

This is a youtube playlist that contains videos for beginners on how to use the HPC and some best practices! It covers different topics like:

- basic commands
- editing files
- running scripts
- submitting jobs through slurm
- and managing environments.

There is also a tutorial series here by MIT that offers some great content for introductions to computing with the command line. The 2026 course is currently under construction, but the 2020 materials are great regardless!
